Warriki Jarrinjaku Jintangkamanu Purananjaku
“Working Together Everyone and Listening”

Our A4 book “Warrki Jarrinjaku Jintangkamanu Purananjaku” is developed in response to the recognition that exist in early childhood of design and delivery are usually not appropriate for aboriginal families living life styles. Most research has been done by non-Aboriginal people and mostly men. This book explores the notion that if service models respect the cultural integrity of Aboriginal communities then the health and well-being for people will significantly improve. “Warrki Jarrinjaku Jintangkamanu Purananjaku” belongs to, and is the intellectual property of the Waltja Tjutangku Palyapayi Aboriginal Corporation, Department of Family and Community Services and the women and families who worked on this project.

The Commonwealth Department of Family and Community Services have funded this resource. This book forms part two of a three stage project, which can be purchased through Waltja. We ask you to respect this, and our Aboriginal culture, and not to use this book or reproduce any part of it without permission from Waltja Tjutangku Palyapayi Aboriginal Corporation. This includes storage in a retrieval system, or transmitted in a form by any means; electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise.
